PARTNERSHIP OF RIGHT OF AMERICA AND EUROPE IS AIM WILSON SAYS

This Nation Not Interested in European Politics and Will Join No Combination of Power Which is Not a Combination of Us All

MANCHESTER WELCOMES PRESIDENT

If The World is to Remain a Company of Friends There Must be an Easy and Constant Method of Conference He Tells Audience

MANCHESTER, ENGLAND, DECEMBER 30.—(Associated Press)—America is not interested in European politics but she is interested in a partnership of right between America and Europe, declared President Wilson in receiving the freedom of the city of Manchester at the Free Trade Hall here today. America is not interested merely in the peace of Europe, but in the peace of the world, he added.

"If the future had nothing for us but a new attempt to keep the world at the right poise by a balance of power," the President added, "the United States would take no interest in it, because she will join no combination of power which is not a combination of us all."

There was a feeling of cordial fraternity and cordial friendship between America and Great Britain, declared the President, which was based on the principle of friendship and patriotism that led men to give more than was demanded. The partnership of interest which attempted the government of the world had broken down, he said, as interest did not bind men together, but separated them. Common devotion to the right was the only thing he insisted that could bind men together.

In the settlement which is just ahead something more difficult than ever was attempted before had to be accomplished, a genuine concert of mind and purpose, the President said, but a keen interested consciousness would make it easy. There is a great voice of humanity abroad in the world "which he who cannot hear is deaf," he added.

If the world is to remain a body of friends, he said, there must be an easy and constant method of conference so that troubles could be taken when they were little and not allowed to grow until they were big.

"I wish we could for the whole world enter into a league and covenant and declare ourselves the friends of mankind," the President added.

The President said he was not hopeful that the individual items of the settlement which was about to be attempted would be altogether satisfactory.

"One only has to apply his mind," he continued, "to any one of the questions of boundary, of altered sovereignty, of racial aspiration to do something more than conjecture this. There is no man, no body of men who knows just how they ought to be settled, and yet if we are to make satisfactory settlement we must see to it that they are rendered more and more satisfactory by subsequent adjustment which is made possible. We must provide the machinery for readjustment in order that we may have the machinery of good will and friendship."

ENEMY ALIENS ARE TO BE DEPORTED FROM THIS COUNTRY

(By Associated Press)

Washington, December 30.—Deportation of most of the 3000 or 4000 enemy aliens now interned in the United States will be recommended to Congress shortly by the Department of Justice.

Special legislation will be required for the deportation and it was learned today the Department will ask also for authority to prevent the re-entry of these men into this country later. Some of the interned aliens are not considered dangerous now and no effort will be made to deport them. Careful investigation of the records convinces the Department of Justice that the larger proportion of those interned should not be left in this country to foment further trouble.

BURLESON ONCE MORE ATTACKED BY HITCHCOCK

Senator Claims Cabinet Officer Came Near Breaking Faith With Congress

(By Associated Press)

Washington, December 30.—By taking over control of the cables after the armistice was signed Postmaster General Burleson "came very close to breaking faith with Congress," Senator Hitchcock, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, declared in the Senate today in commenting on a letter from the Postmaster General explaining his action.

In his letter which Senator Hitchcock had put into the records, the Postmaster General explained that the order taking over the cables and signed November 2nd, was based upon a ruling of the Attorney General that such action was legal.

Senator Hitchcock declared that, while the order might have been signed by the President on that date, it had not been countersigned by the Secretary of State, while announcement of such intention had been "suppressed the country not knowing anything of it."

CLEMENCAU WILL STAND WITH BRITON

Says That Course Has Approval of President Wilson

(By Associated Press)

Paris, December 30.—In addressing the Chamber of Deputies last night Premier Clemenceau made it plain that it was his intention to support Great Britain in the peace negotiations on the question of the freedom of the seas, and he declared his attitude in this matter was approved by President Wilson.

He told the chamber that if pilots were to be changed now was the time to change, but the deputies gave him a vote of confidence by 380 to 134.

Premier Clemenceau explained the peace situation as it concerned France, Great Britain and the United States, and his explanation appeared fully to satisfy all except the unified socialists who repeatedly interrupted him.

Premier Clemenceau said his conversation with President Wilson has been profitable, although, he added, "I should not be telling the truth if I

NOT OPPOSED

(By Associated Press)

Paris, Dec. 30.—In summing up his argument for full confidence and the exercise of patience by the chamber the premier said:

"There will be claims to be set forth and others which will have to be given up. If I mounted the rostrum to elaborate the subject I would be the worst Premier in Europe. That does not mean that we are working hard to prepare a line of action for the Peace Congress."

The Premier earlier had expressed the belief in the efficiency of the old system of alliances called the "balance of power" but indicated that he was not opposed to a league of nations, such a league, he said, might be organized about the time the treaty of peace was completed.

U. S. SHOULD BE READY IN SEA FORCES

(By Associated Press)

Washington, December 30.—Appearing before the House Naval Committee today in behalf of the new $600,000,000 three year building program, Secretary Daniels said if a league of nations were organized the United States should be prepared to contribute as large a unit as any other nation to an international police force and that without an international agreement for reduction of armaments, the policy of navy expansion should be continued indefinitely.

In formally submitting the new building program he urged a provision for suspension of construction at the order of the President whenever an international agreement is made for armament reduction.

Declares War Department Unprepared For Handling Wounded Returning From France.

Points To Fact That U. S. Drew Heavily Upon England and France For Certain Equipment.

(By Associated Press)

Washington, December 30.—Renewing his charge of inefficiency in the conduct of governmental departments particularly of the war department, Senator Chamberlain, chairman of military committee declared today that the United States was as unprepared to take care of returning wounded soldiers as it was unprepared to enter the war.

He said his charge of inefficiency made last winter had since been admitted by the administration in the enactment of the Overman law.

"God only knows how many lives have been sacrificed needlessly due to unpreparedness even up to the time the armistice was signed," he said.

He read extensively from the recent report of Gen. Pershing to support his assertion that despite the claim made as far back as last February that thousands of airplanes were being shipped aboard and the heavy ordnance situation was improving, it had been necessary for the American forces to depend heavily upon both France and Great Britain for airplanes and big guns.

DECOY VESSEL DID GREAT WORK OUTWITTING SUBS
London, December 25.—(Associated Press Correspondence)—The loss of the British decoy ship Dunraven in a desperate battle with a German submarine, the story of which has now been made public by the British Admiralty, constitutes one of the most daring and heroic episodes of the anti-submarine war. With their vessel blazing, and boxes of cordite and shells exploding every few minutes, the after gun crew stuck to their gun until the magazine exploded and blew them and their gun into the air. Meanwhile the battle with the submarine was fiercely waged.
In her role of an armed British merchant vessel the Dunraven was engaged by the submarine when a U-boat opened fire upon her at 5,000 yards. The Dunraven returned the fire with her merchant ship gun and overtook her to enable the Hun to overtake her. To coax him on, wireless signals were sent out reading: "Help. Come quickly. Submarine chasing and shelling me."
Finally when the submarine's shells began falling close, the Dunraven stopped and the usual "panic party" abandoned ship. The Dunraven was then on fire aft and the submarine closed in to a distance of 400 yards, but was partly obscured from view by dense clouds of smoke issuing from the Dunraven's stern.
Although he knew that the magazine must explode if he waited, and that a gun and a gun's crew lay concealed over the magazine, Captain Campbell reserved his fire until the submarine had passed clear of the smoke. A moment later there was a heavy explosion and the Dunraven's gun and its crew were blown into the air. The concussion started the fire rages at the remaining gun positions. The screens hiding the guns were dropped and the only gun that could be brought to bear opened fire. The submarine commenced to submerge, knowing that a torpedo would surely follow. Captain Campbell had all the abandoned brought up and concealed in cabins. The after part of the Dunraven was a mass of flames but the crew fought the fire with hose.
Twenty minutes later another torpedo struck the ship abaft the engine room. Another "panic party" was sent away in the boats, leaving the ship apparently completely abandoned with the British flag flying and her guns unmasked, but Captain Campbell and a handful of officers and men remained on board and lay hidden for nearly an hour while the submarine commander held off watching the burning ship through his periscope.
A third "panic party" was planning a jump overboard and leave the one gun crew for a final attempt to sink the U-boat when British and American destroyers arrived on the scene. The Dunraven's wounded were transferred, her guns recalled and the fire extinguished. The Dunraven, in a sinking condition was taken in tow, but the weather grew worse and on the following morning she sank with her colors flying.

MEMOIR
Sylvia Arwilda Hynes, daughter of J. C. and Elizabeth Hynes was born July 25, 1882, united with the Sugar Creek Baptist church in 1894. Was married to C. L. Sexton, March 21, 1901. The husband died August 29, 1914. The harmony of this couple during their thirteen years of married life was far above the average. Moved to Washington February 2nd, 1910. United with the Baptist church there 1914. The membership of which church testify to the christian integrity of her life and character.
Moved back to the farm November 16th, 1916. United again with the church of her childhood.
She died in Mt. Carmel Hospital in Columbus after five days of intense suffering December 18, 1918. Aged 36 years, 4 months and 23 days. She leaves to mourn their loss a mother and one brother and a host of relatives and friends.
Last Wednesday evening as the sun was sinking behind the western horizon Sylvia crossed the line that separates the known from the unknown, the visible from the invisible time from eternity.
Twenty five years of the thirty-six that she was here, she was a sufferer. Sylvia Sexton has been writing by her good deeds, by every kind word, by every act of charity, a life history that will be remembered by every one who knew her.
The vacant chair in the home, the empty pew in the church are silent witnesses of her real worth. Cheerful by nature, ministering to the wants of the sick when others were afraid to go. Loyal to her country in the dark hours of war, patient in suffering, victorious in death, she has gone to her reward.

FAKE PICTURE USED BY HUNS

London, December 26.—One of the treasured possessions of the British Admiralty is a German drawing showing a U-boat in the Thames before London with the famous inscription "Es kommt ein Tag" (There comes a day). The picture shows a London skyline with the houses of Parliament and the dome of St. Paul's cathedral. In the foreground is a German submarine flying a large imperial ensign. On the conning tower are three sailors facing the sky line with their clenched fists menacingly raised above their heads. On the deck is another sailor in the same pose.

MONSTER SHELLS FROM U. S. GUNS HURLED AT HUNS
Battery From Utah Sent to "Get" Hun Super Gun Creates Havoc in Hun Positions
(By Associated Press)
New York, December 30.—The story of the success of America's land battery of 14-inch naval guns as told by members of the gun crews themselves, was given to the public here, when copies of "The Big U" a newspaper printed on board the battleship Utah, were circulated on shore.
It was the Utah's picked gun crew, the paper says, that was sent ashore to "get" the German supergun which was shelling Paris. The gun was removed, it is said, before the battles could get into action, but the navy men had the satisfaction of smashing away at the German line for several months before the armistice was signed.
The shells fired by the naval guns, according to "The Big U," were almost twice the size of those fired by the German supergun, and were so powerful that on one occasion an exploding shell hurled two loaded freight cars from the track to the top of a railway station.
Another shell landed in a hut where 100 Germans were watching a motion picture show, and when American troops later reached the spot 40 identification cards were all that could be found to tell the fate of the party.
The naval guns habitually fired at a range of from 20 to 21 miles, the article said, and more than 800 rounds had been fired when the armistice was signed.

SMALLPOX IS IN STORE FOR OHIO
(By Associated Press)
Columbus, Dec. 30.—A smallpox epidemic rivaling that of a year ago, is in store for Ohio this winter unless the people of the state immediately take steps to ward off the danger by vaccination.
The State Department of Health based today this warning upon reports showing that there were 434 cases of smallpox in the state in November. This is more than in any previous November in recent years, with the exception of last November, when one of the most widespread smallpox epidemics ever known in Ohio was just beginning.
"Vaccination is a certain means of preventing smallpox," declared the Department of Health. "A community in which this precaution has been generally observed will never have a serious smallpox outbreak. A community in which the precaution has been neglected will be in grave danger during the coming months."

SMALLPOX IS IN STORE FOR OHIO
(By Associated Press)
Columbus, Dec. 30.—A smallpox epidemic rivaling that of a year ago, is in store for Ohio this winter unless the people of the state immediately take steps to ward off the danger by vaccination.
The State Department of Health based today this warning upon reports showing that there were 434 cases of smallpox in the state in November. This is more than in any previous November in recent years, with the exception of last November, when one of the most widespread smallpox epidemics ever known in Ohio was just beginning.
"Vaccination is a certain means of preventing smallpox," declared the Department of Health. "A community in which this precaution has been generally observed will never have a serious smallpox outbreak. A community in which the precaution has been neglected will be in grave danger during the coming months."

DECOY VESSEL DID GREAT WORK OUTWITTING SUBS
London, December 25.—(Associated Press Correspondence)—The loss of the British decoy ship Dunraven in a desperate battle with a German submarine, the story of which has now been made public by the British Admiralty, constitutes one of the most daring and heroic episodes of the anti-submarine war. With their vessel blazing, and boxes of cordite and shells exploding every few minutes, the after gun crew stuck to their gun until the magazine exploded and blew them and their gun into the air. Meanwhile the battle with the submarine was fiercely waged.
In her role of an armed British merchant vessel the Dunraven was engaged by the submarine when a U-boat opened fire upon her at 5,000 yards. The Dunraven returned the fire with her merchant ship gun and overtook her to enable the Hun to overtake her. To coax him on, wireless signals were sent out reading: "Help. Come quickly. Submarine chasing and shelling me."
Finally when the submarine's shells began falling close, the Dunraven stopped and the usual "panic party" abandoned ship. The Dunraven was then on fire aft and the submarine closed in to a distance of 400 yards, but was partly obscured from view by dense clouds of smoke issuing from the Dunraven's stern.
Although he knew that the magazine must explode if he waited, and that a gun and a gun's crew lay concealed over the magazine, Captain Campbell reserved his fire until the submarine had passed clear of the smoke. A moment later there was a heavy explosion and the Dunraven's gun and its crew were blown into the air. The concussion started the fire rages at the remaining gun positions. The screens hiding the guns were dropped and the only gun that could be brought to bear opened fire. The submarine commenced to submerge, knowing that a torpedo would surely follow. Captain Campbell had all the abandoned brought up and concealed in cabins. The after part of the Dunraven was a mass of flames but the crew fought the fire with hose.
Twenty minutes later another torpedo struck the ship abaft the engine room. Another "panic party" was sent away in the boats, leaving the ship apparently completely abandoned with the British flag flying and her guns unmasked, but Captain Campbell and a handful of officers and men remained on board and lay hidden for nearly an hour while the submarine commander held off watching the burning ship through his periscope.
A third "panic party" was planning a jump overboard and leave the one gun crew for a final attempt to sink the U-boat when British and American destroyers arrived on the scene. The Dunraven's wounded were transferred, her guns recalled and the fire extinguished. The Dunraven, in a sinking condition was taken in tow, but the weather grew worse and on the following morning she sank with her colors flying.

The department urges employers to require workmen to be vaccinated.
In the smallpox epidemic last winter and spring more than 10,000 cases of the disease were reported. This is as many smallpox cases as were reported in the entire three years of 1914, 1915 and 1916. The cost of the epidemic to the state for eight months has been estimated as more than $600,000, all of which expense could have been saved by general vaccination, say health officials.

CHARACTER HATS

For Spring

The advance guard of early Spring styles are the very lovely models so beautifully "different" as all character hats are.

They show a decided style trend towards Satin and Satin combinations, for Spring Satin and Braid Combinations being much in evidence. These new ones include many models in Satin combined with Satin Braid and Chrysanthemum Braid in harmonizing or contrasting colors. Navy blue, taupe, brown and black being very good.

Another style note is the beautifully effective motifs of cut beads and cut steel. Nobby, medium shapes hold sway, with high front and sides, in the "off the face" effect so charmingly becoming to most women.

And quality and style considered, their prices are indeed reasonable.

STORIES OF WAR ARE RELATED BY SEC'Y PATTON

Explains Only Reason "Y" Could Be Criticised And Says That Reason Long Since Passed — Little Insights Into Conditions At Front.

Addressing a large audience at the First Baptist Church Sunday morning, former General Secretary of the Y. M. C. A. in this city, who spent the better part of one year engaged in Y. M. C. A. work in France, gave his auditors a new insight into the workings of the "Y" abroad, and into the conditions that existed and events that occurred at and near the front.

Secretary Patton, who soon leaves for resumption of Y. M. C. A. work with the army of occupation, spoke of the great difficulties that confronted the Y. M. C. A. workers at and near the front for many months after the work was started, and stated that because of these handicaps which resulted in "Y" goods being unreasonably high in price and slow to reach the place of distribution, some criticism was sure to follow, and as a matter of fact had been made, but declared that before he left France transportation conditions were better and the Y. M. C. A. was able to furnish a larger supply of goods and at lower prices, the prices asked being actual cost as had been on the goods previously obtained at higher prices.

The Yanks, he declared, were not favorably impressed with the details and painstaking manner of the French instructors—until they went to the front and realized that the French knew what they were doing in giving minute and apparently tedious instructions on various phases of the work at the front.

Mr. Patton stated that as a rule the boys did not care much for money at the front, and that they did not lose an opportunity of going after the Huns in dead earnest.

His revelation of various phases of the fighting were highly interesting.

TOURISTS WERE HIGHLY ACTIVE

(By Associated Press)

Washington, December 29.—In spite of war and enforced restrictions on travel, during the 1918 tourist season, the number of visitors to America's national parks was 93 per cent of the total in 1917. Stephen T. Mather, superintendent of the national park service established a year ago, has reported to Secretary Lane that visitors this year numbered 454,841, against 490,705 in 1917. For 1919, the director anticipates that the new privileges and the released restriction will lead to immense increases.

Director Mather urges that the Grand Canyon of the Colorado be added to the list of national parks, and that steps be taken to acquire for the United States the Mammoth Cave, in Kentucky, the sand dune area in Indiana, and the gigantic tree areas in California.

Total appropriations for parks carried for the year beginning June 30, 1918, were $1,012,000. Mr. Mather reports while the revenues from the parks, in the year ending the same date, were $216,105, as compared with $180,571 in the previous year. Pointing out that a large number of gifts of lands and rights of way have been made to the park system, and are likely to be made oftener in the future, the reports suggests that permanent legislation be enacted to allow the Secretary of Interior to accept these, and to accept money.

An early fixing of tourist rates on railroads is also asked, that the travel to the parks and their management policy may be facilitated during coming years.

ASKS JUDGMENT ON OLD NOTES

Lewis Perrill, as executor of the estate of Wallace Creamer, deceased, in common pleas court has filed action against Michael S. Gray and Margaret E. Gray, in which judgment on two old promissory notes is sought, and the court is asked to set aside a pretended transfer of real estate made by the first named defendant to his wife.

One of the promissory notes in question is dated January 1, 1910, is for $60 and payable in six months. It bears no indorsements, according to the plaintiff, who also says that a note for $50 and bearing date of July 16, 1906, due in six months, bears no indorsements.

Plaintiff charges that the defendant Gray, during the past year purported to convey to his wife, for no consideration of value, and for the purpose of delaying payment of the notes and for the purpose of defrauding, and asks that the pretended conveyance of the realty, which consists of several lots in the Washington Improvement Addition, be set aside and that judgment be satisfied.

John Logan represents the plaintiff.

RED CROSS ACTIVITIES

The work of the Red Cross must go on!

As long as there are Americans under arms; as long as there is misery and distress the work of the Red Cross is essential and must continue. Its character may change—the American Red Cross is an emergency organization by nature—it deals with problems as they arise—but there is always need for its splendid humanitarian service. The record of the Red Cross has been that it has never failed to answer a call of distress, no matter what or where or how that call came.

Not alone can there be no relaxation in any Red Cross effort incident to active hostilities until peace is declared. Even with peace let no one suppose that the work of the Red Cross is finished.

Millions of American boys are still under arms. Thousands of them are sick and wounded. Owing to the shortage of shipping, it may take a year or more to bring our boys home from France. But whatever the time, our protecting arm must be about them and their families over the whole period which must elapse before the normal life of peace can be resumed.

KNITTERS ARE ORDERED TO "STACK NEEDLES" AFTER FINISHING WORK NOW ON HAND

Washington, December 28.—(By Associated Press)—America's army of women knitters, who did not cease work with the signing of the armistice today were ordered by the Red Cross to "stack needles," their task accomplished.

An inventory of articles in reserve shows sufficient on hand to meet the needs of fighting men in this country and abroad and of Red Cross relief commissions. Knitted articles now in making will be finished and turned into the 854 Red Cross Chapters, which will issue no more yarn.

More than 10,000,000 sweaters, socks, mufflers, helmets and wristlets were turned out in seventeen months. Virtually every man in the army was given woollen accessories fashioned by the tireless fingers of thousands of women who chose that method of aiding to win the war.

Your Obligations Have Not Ceased

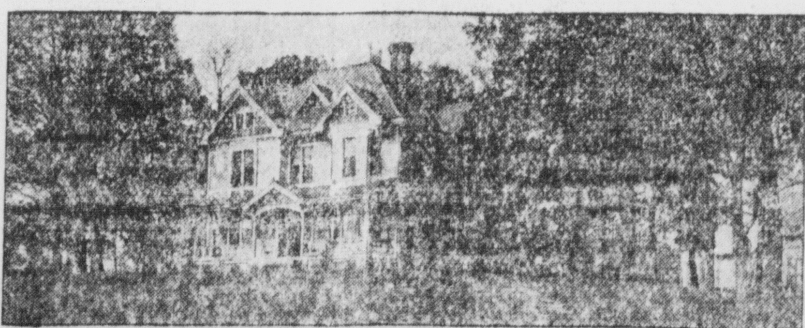

Your obligations have not ceased with the cessation of hostilities. Many a long, weary, lonesome day must pass before our boys can be brought back home. And they depend upon you to keep up their courage with letters—but what they want most of all is pictures from home—pictures that will keep the home fires kindled.

The Training of Young Men

While the nation is demobilizing its army, releasing soldiers from the service at the rate of one hundred thousand each week, and while the military establishment of America, the most gigantic the world ever saw, is falling apart, piece by piece, and being absorbed in the industrial life of the nation it is too soon, until that work is fully concluded, to discuss the future of the physical training and military education of the youth of the country, yet we are all conscious that that problem is certain to face us in the near future.

Great Britain, France, Italy and Belgium are weary. Those nations are tired of war. They are exhausted and want no more of war or war's reminders until the sorrow and the cost of the world war has been, in a measure at least, compensated for. America will recover much sooner from the effects of the war than the nations associated with her in the struggle and may be expected to face an agitation for some sort of training for the young men long before the nations who were longer in the struggle and paid a greater price for liberty.

The effect of the military training upon the young men of America has been tremendously beneficial.

If some way can be devised which will bring to the young men of the nation the benefit of military training without, at the same time, building a military machine which America will not sanction in times of peace, it would be a glorious achievement.

Progress Made

Each day brings its developments, as the preliminary discussions between the statesmen of the great nations proceed and each development while of course not conclusive and final as to the outcome of the peace conference, and nothing could be save the final result of the conference itself, is, nevertheless, evidence of the most convincing character that the aims and purposes of the allied and associated nations, officials and people, are in entire harmony.

There is everything, in the developments of the last ten days, to warrant a feeling of confidence and optimism regarding the outcome of the final and formal peace conference. Those who have seen, many of them honestly, more than a possibility that there might be some disagreement among the nations as to the adoption of a plan designed to preserve peace throughout the world in the future or in the attempt to clearly define that frequently used phrase, "the freedom of the seas" are warranted, it seems, in dropping all apprehension and looking forward with confidence.

The preliminary discussions that have occurred between the leaders of the great nations during the past ten days have done much to bring a clear understanding as to the aims and purposes. The personal meetings, the exchange of words expressive of ideas, the elaboration of ideas and ideals which can only come by personal contact and intimate personal discussions, has broken down the barriers of suspicion and misconception of motives which would have been impossible by long range correspondence, no matter how voluminous or by delegate representation no matter how able.

The only method by which perfect accord in ideas could be assured at the peace conference was the one which has been adopted—personal conferences between the men who have led the nations during the trying times of war, inspired by definite ideals and fixed purposes.

The men of the free nations of the earth have fought in defense of the principles of freedom and the leaders have but to understand each other to make these principles the absolute law of mankind throughout the world. The personal interviews have brought that understanding.

Lloyd George's Victory

The victory of David Lloyd George and the coalition government forces in the British elections is a gratifying result and a result which means much to the future of the empire and the nations associated with Great Britain in the defense of humanity.

It seemed inconceivable that the able Welshman who was such a tower of strength in the dark days of war should be denied the vindication which election would imply. Notwithstanding the tremendous service which Lloyd George rendered the empire in its hours of need, there was bitter opposition to his candidacy and many feared that the result of the elections might not bring the expression of popular approval as emphatically as the faithful premier's work warranted.

The victory of Lloyd George, in the elections, means that Britons are appreciative of his great service.

POEM FOR TODAY

TOAST TO THE FLAG

"Here's to the red of it,
There's not a thread of it,
No, nor a shred of it,
From foot to head,
But heroes bled for it,
Face steel and lead for it,
Precious blood shed for it,
Bathing in red.

"Here's to the white of it;
Thrilled by the sight of it,
Who knows the right of it
But has felt the might of it
Through day and night;
Womanhood's care for it,
Purity's prayer for it,
Kept it so white.

"Here's to the blue of it,
Heavenly view of it,
Star-spangled hue of it,
Honesty's due of it.
Constant and true;
Here's to the whole of it,
Stars, Stripes and pole of it,
Here's to the soul of it,
Red, White and Blue."

FARM NOTES

Surveyed 38,136 Square Miles.

Detailed soil surveys covering 38,136 square miles were made during the fiscal year 1918 by the Bureau of Soils of the United States Department of Agriculture. Prior surveys of 445,825 square miles make the total 483,961 square miles. Twenty-two States and four bureaus of the Federal Government are now actively co-operating in soil-survey work.

County Agent Was Big Factor.

To operate a farm of 319 acres with only two young boys to do the work is not an easy job. To make it produce a net profit of $1,800 in one year under those conditions is considered a real achievement. A farmer near Rockford, Coosa County, Ala., in a letter to the United States Department of Agriculture, gives this as the record made by his own sons. But he adds that the county agent was the big factor in the achievement. It was the agent who helped to select the seed and give advice on drainage, terracing, pasturing, and the care of the cattle and hogs. "In a general way he has helped by organizing the boys' pig and calf clubs that are working wonders for the improvement of stock," writes this farmer. Also he adds that this county agent and his wife "have caused the canning industry at home to increase 500 per cent in the last two years."

Arsenical Spray Saves Berries.

Arsenical spraying for the control of the insect known as leaf rollers that are injurious to strawberry, blackberry, raspberry and related plants of the rose family has been found to accomplish good results. The bureau of Entomology reports the saving of at least 50 per cent by the use of this spray in Iowa and Kansas. A single spraying resulted in destroying two-thirds of the pests.

It has long been the policy of this establishment to reduce its surplus stocks during the month of January. Stocks of Ready-to-Wear, Millinery and those items which change in style from season to season, are always sold at very low prices. This season we find our departments filled with merchandise. All of which is very desirable, yet must be reduced before our annual inventory is taken. This surplus will be sold in the usual January Clearance Sale, but this sale will be far greater than ever before. This will be, we believe, the greatest sale we have ever held for the simple reason that we will have far more merchandise to offer at greater price reductions. Announcement of prices, etc., will appear in next Thursday's issue of this paper, and it will be to everyone's interest to study same carefully. The sale will commence on next Friday morning, January Third.

GERMANS FIRE UPON AMERICAN FLAG IN POSEN

Many Killed When Poles Clash With Huns After Overt Act Toward the Stars and Stripes

(By Associated Press)
Warsaw, Dec. 30.—A Polish official report concerning the riot in Posen on the arrival of Ignace Jan Paderewski, who is on his way here, says the trouble began when the allied and American flags were hoisted over the City Hall. The Germans demanded that the flags be hauled down. The Poles refused to acquiesce, whereupon the Germans brought up machine guns and began firing in the streets, driving back the crowds and dispersing the Polish troops.
Finally the German officials took down the flags. Meanwhile the Poles reassembled and began to return the German fire. The fighting continued from 2 o'clock in the afternoon to 7 p. m.
The Germans provoked another incident by trying to prevent Paderewski from going about the streets. The arrival of Paderewski and British and American officers has created much enthusiasm here. The hope is expressed that their arrival will stamp out Bolshevism and prevent anticipated trouble in Warsaw.

London, December 29.—Flying by German officers on an allied automobile carrying an American flag was the cause of street fighting in Posen Friday says a dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph from Copenhagen.
The Germans were defeated in the fighting. About 138 persons, including a number of women and children were killed during the rioting.
The dispatch says:
"There was severe fighting between the Poles and Germans in Posen Friday which resulted in 38 women and about 100 Germans and Poles being killed.
"The affray originated as result of a German officer firing on an allied automobile which was proceeding to Warsaw carrying the American flag. The Germans insulted the flag, and the Polish guard was called out.

The fighting lasted several hours, and the Germans were defeated.
"A delegation from the British mission to Posen protested to the German commander in the town, General Schimmelfeng, but the German officer declared that he had no control over the soldiers."

FLAGRANT ABUSE IS CHARGE MADE

(By Associated Press)
London, December 30.—Charges of flagrant abuse of neutrality by a Swedish army official have been made in the Prize Court here by Sir Frederick Smith, attorney general. He asked for condemnation as a prize of $2,500,000 worth of wool, sized in seven vessels and claimed by the Royal Swedish army administration. The wool, the attorney general alleges, was bought with German money for use in Germany.
This was one of a series of cases, Sir Frederick Smith asserted, in which the late Swedish government, or Lieutenant-Colonel Wikland, head of the equipment section of the Swedish army, lent its name improperly as consignees. Kikland, who had not been repudiated by the Swedish government, Sir Frederick said, had bought goods with funds supplied by Germany.
"These are grave allegations," said the Attorney General. "It is not quite clear where the money came from, but there we see sham shipper and sham consignees of a commodity of which Germany was in desperate need, and either or both lent themselves to chicanery in order that this court and the representatives of the British navy might be misled."

WILSON VISITS BIRTHPLACE OF HIS ANCESTORS

Called to Pulpit Where He Pays Tribute to His Mother and Grandfather

(By Associated Press)

Carlisle, England, December 29.—President Wilson, accompanied by Mrs. Wilson, came to Carlisle today in rain and a cold penetrating mist to visit the girlhood home of his mother.

But the warmth of the greeting of the people of the town and of the thousands of strangers from the surrounding country more than offset the dreariness of the weather.

Large crowds lined the streets and cheered the Presidential party lustily as it drove from the station, where the President was received by Mayor Bertram Carr, and local notables, to the Crown and Mitre Hotel, where the President signed the free-man's roll.

The President visited Annetwell, where the President visited Annetwell St. ther's chapel was pointed out to him, and the house in Cavendish Place that was built by his grandfather. Later he attended services in the Lowther Street Congregational Church.

Here during the services Rev. Edward Booth, pastor of the church, requested the President to come into the pulpit and address the assembly. This the President did, delivering a short speech, in which he touched simply but eloquently on his mother.

The President said in part: "It is with unaffected reluctance that I inject myself into this service. I remember my grandfather very well, and, remembering him, I can see how he would not approve. I remember what he required of me and remember the stern lessons of duty he spoke. And I remember painfully about things he expected me to know that I did not know."

"There has come a change of times when laymen like myself are permitted to speak in a congregation. There is another reason why I was reluctant to speak."

"The feelings excited in me today are really too intimate and too deep to permit of public expression. The memories that have come of the mother who was born here are very affecting. Her quiet character, her sense of duty and her dislike of ostentation have come back to me with increasing force as these years of duty have accumulated."

"Yet perhaps it is appropriate that in a place of worship I should acknowledge my indebtedness to her and her remarkable father, because after all, what the world now is seeking to do is to return to the paths of duty, to turn from the savagery of interests to the dignity of the performance of right."

"RAINBOW" BOYS HOME IN SPRING

(By Associated Press)

Washington, December 29.—Forty-second national guard division, better known as the Rainbow division, which includes the old Fourth Ohio infantry, may get home next spring.

Gen. Pershing the war department is informed, is now considering a suggestion that the veteran national guard divisions now attached to the army of occupation be relieved within the next two or three months. Any such order would apply to the Forty-second division and the Twenty-sixth division, composed of New England troops.

Recently orders went out that several fresh divisions, that is to say divisions that did not arrive in France in time to get into the fight be not returned to the United States immediately, but held for future orders. It is presumed here that these divisions will relieve the veterans in case the relief step is decided on.

Major General Clement A. F. Flagler succeeded Major General Charles T. Mencher in command of the division on November 11, the day the armistice was signed. Gen. Mencher will arrive here in a few days to become the head of the war air service.

INDORSES PLAN

(By Associated Press)

London, December 30.—The Express understands that President Wilson, who has been giving considerable personal attention during his visit to Europe to the question of fighting famine in the Central Empires, has indorsed and submitted to the allies a definite plan for relief formulated by his advisers, including Herbert Hoover.

It is felt that the need of some action is imperative.

President Wilson favors the immediate appointment of a director general of relief for Europe, supplementing the work of the International Food Council.

A New Spirit of Good Will

Thanks to the opportunity given it by the War Department at home and abroad, a new spirit of good will has grown up around Dodge Brothers Motor Car.

Wherever soldiers meet, this car is spoken of in terms of admiration and even affection.

Soldiers grow to love the tools and weapons and implements that serve them.

They admire especially the inanimate thing that shows grit and endurance in a tight place.

That is American—and that is the American soldier in particular—and that is the sort of glory being woven around Dodge Brothers Motor Car.

There will always be associated with it the remembrance of the work it did in the world war in army service on both sides of the ocean.

Thousands of American soldiers are coming back now from the camps in America and the battle-front in France, telling how well that work was done.

They are telling it to their fathers and mothers, their worshipping small brothers, their sisters, their sweethearts and their friends.

It is the central figure in many a stirring story told about the family fireplace.

To many a white-haired American mother it means something more, as it goes by, than just a motor car.

She links it, somehow, with what her own boy did, with what America did, and with what America stands for.

Dodge Brothers are proud that theirs was the one car of its type and class chosen by the War Department.

They are prouder still that it has been taken into the hearts and homes of the American people.

The old folks, and the little folks who don't forget, are spreading a leaven of good will which will endure for years to come.

Dodge Brothers cherish this new spirit of good will which has come out of the world war as their most valued possession.

OHIO BOYS GAVE FRITZ MORE THAN HE BARGAINED FOR

Mrs. Calverna Williams has received the accompanying letter from her son, Sgt. Edw. Williams, of the 37th Division (Ohio National Guard), dated November 8th.

"Dear Mother and all at home: "Here I am in Belgium, have been here for some time; in fact long enough to do a lot of marching and go through another big offensive. My last letter to you was from France. We had a long train ride through France in the usual way, going through Paris and Amiens. We detained near one of the most famous battlefields of Belgium, our march through the old trench systems and no man's land was one long to be remembered. It was a chaos of ruined British tanks, German pill boxes, cannons, etc., and certainly showed what an awful struggle had taken place. Before long we were in Belgium where the Germans had retreated making little resistance. Here the country was beautiful; the land is flat and very fertile, the people are very thrifty and clean. The Germans took most every thing of value but they were cleaning and fixing up the houses. They are certainly strong for the Americans. We were about the first American division in here and they could not do enough for us. Of course we are doing all we can for them. Our division followed up for several days until it came our turn to go after Fritz and we certainly let him have it. We gained all of our objectives (we always do) in schedule time and had a lot of fun along with it. Fritz did his best three times but he always had to give way. Our last job was crossing a river where there had to be bridges built. My job was putting in telephone wires and keep them working. Well, we got there, but while doing so I had that wonderful sensation of being caught in a German artillery barrage. I will always feel just a little sorry for Fritz when our barrage goes over. We were all glad when we were relieved so we could come back here to rest. All I want is always to be as lucky as I was that time. I am feeling fine now and I suppose we will be going back soon to avenge some more of the awful things the Germans have done to Belgium. SGT. EDW. WILLIAMS, Hdq. Co., 146 U. S. Inf., 37th Div.

Military Strength of America Opens Eyes of Little Men of the Far East

Noted Jap Educator Has Words of Warmest Praise For U. S.

(By Associated Press)
Tokio, December 30.—The rapidity with which the United States prepared for war and the magnitude and success of her military operations continue to draw expressions of admiration from Japanese. Generally speaking, the public in Japan regarded the United States as a peace-loving nation, which, having no bent for war, could never do much in the building up of a great army.

The wonderful transformation of America in the war is the subject of many articles by prominent publicists. Thus, Dr. Shigeo Suyehiro, professor of Kyoto University, writes:

"There is no disguising the fact that prior to the war the Japanese did not believe in the military strength of America, but the present titanic struggle has demonstrated beyond all doubt the error of the Japanese estimate. The United States has become a great military power at a bound and her navy is only second to that of Great Britain. The financial resources of America are something tremendous. It is stated that America would be able to keep the war going for a quarter of a century at the rate of expenditure which she spent for the first year. Nor is this all.

"The Americans are as great spiritually as their country is almost limitless in her resources. Just imagine that the Americans—whom some Japanese consider as slavish worshipper of Mammon—working for their country at an allowance of $1 a year; they endured the hardship of meatless and wheatless days in order to obtain a supply of surplus provisions available for the Allies; and no dissident voice was raised against the proposed restrictions of the manufacture of liquor.

"The material and spiritual sacrifices made by the Americans in the cause of the war as evidenced in these and other things are really wonderful showing as they do the greatness of America and her people.

Dr. Suyehiro thought that it would be the height of absurdity for Japan to pick a quarrel with such a great country without a sufficient cause. He said Japan should stand for an open door policy in the Far East, but in return she should receive similar treatment in Indo-China, Canada, Australia and New Zealand. He said that America had been excluding Japanese immigrants but he thought it very doubtful whether she was sufficiently justified in so doing. Japan, he said, should strive to have the United States correct her attitude not by brute force but by appealing
